KCMO Public Testimony,

Are we a World Cup City — or not?

Are we a progressive city — or not?

Do we truly envision a dense, high-transit future for our children, our grandchildren, and generations to come — or not?

Kansas City has built a reputation as a forward-thinking, connected, and community-driven city. With that comes responsibility. If we're serious about being a city for everyone, then we must invest in reliable, accessible, and top-quality public transportation. That means fully funding and expanding our bus system — for our neighbors, our employees, our coworkers, and for the future we claim to believe in.

Otherwise, we might as well roll back the clock to 1978 — and undo the progress we've fought so hard to make.
