Hello, I'm Kevin Anderson, Owner and CEO of Missouri Organic Recycling. Thank you all for taking the time today and for considering us for this important and impactful award.

We are Kansas City's largest and oldest food waste composting operation, processing 20,000 tons annually from primarily commercial sources such as grocery stores, schools, cafeterias, and food production companies. We also serve residential drop-off points and city departments, including fire stations and the City Market.

As we promote more diversion, we're seeing increased contamination, especially plastic, which affects the quality of our compost. Additionally, nearly 46,000 tons of surplus packaged food currently go to landfills with no alternatives.

This grant would enable us to expand our infrastructure to remove plastic contamination from up to 40,000 tons of food waste annually—doubling our capacity—and ensuring the compost we produce is pure and can be returned to the environment for growing food, stormwater management, and climate benefits.

This support has the potential to boost diversion efforts, fight hunger by recovering edible food, and strengthen Kansas City's already robust food recovery infrastructure. It positions Kansas City as a national leader in organic resource management and sets the stage for ongoing innovation in how we manage organic waste, or as I call it, organic resources.

I'd love to invite all of you to visit our facilities and see the process firsthand. Thank you again for your consideration. And thank you for your time!
